The W9xx range of IPN Headsets brings a new standard to wireless communication with state-of-the-art design and improved performances. The headsets offer a range of 400 m. / 1300 ft. for intensive use in and around the workstation. The noise cancelling technology built into the microphone ensures that background noise is kept to a minimum.

The IPN W9xx range comes in three variants which can all be charged on the universal headset base.

The headsets bring your telephony systems together, enabling you to take calls from your desk phone and softphone.*

The external port for an electronic hookswitch, featured as standard, means that telephone calls can be answered and ended remotely.

The IPN W9xx has a sleek design which fits perfectly in every office environment.
